

Arkansas Case Law

◆ Bisbee v. State, 341 Ark. 508, 17 S.W.3d 477 (2000): Appellant's statement regarding the location of a missing child was voluntary because it was given as the result of a promise made by law enforcement officials to provide him with a Coke and a cigarette, and the promise was neither false nor an inducement of his statement. Appellant conceived the idea and initiated the agreement.
